About the Manufacturer

Texas Instruments are recognised as one of the revolutionary forces when it comes to factory automation. Their TI PLCs in particular were an leap forward in plant technology. Despite being introduced decades ago many TI PLCs, such as the TI-305, TI-405 and TI-505, are still used in plants across the globe today - that's where we come in. Here at Northern Industrial you can find complete support for the entire Texas Instruments range, whether you need a site visit, a repair or spare or even just an answer to a technical question.

Texas Instruments PLCs were also sold under an array of other brand names including Siemens, Koyo and Direct Logic.
